

NATIONAL AUTHORITIES TO BRING KRATZ BACK

High Authority at the Four Courts Is Responsible for This Assertion Made Most Emphatically.

MEXICO EXPECTED TO EXTEND COURTESY

It is stated at the Four Courts on high authority that the national government will bring Bond-Jumper Kratz back from Mexico.

In spite of the official statement from Washington that the Kratz incident was closed, and despite the official statement that Kratz would be released from prison in Guadalajara next Saturday, Chief of Police Kiehl announced to the Post-Dispatch Saturday morning that he was sure that when Chief Desmond returned he would have Kratz in custody.

Circuit Attorney Folk and Gov. Dockery are still at work on plans that they think will eventually result in the bringing to justice of the former councilman who is charged with bribery.

Twoed Incident

Is Recalled.

In Washington diplomatic circles the Twoed precedent was rejected as not applying to the Kratz case. Twoed was indicted for a misdemeanor. He was located in Spain, which at that time was a republic. There was no extradition treaty covering the crime for which he was indicted. Still he was delivered over to the United States authorities, as a result of an agreement between President Grant and the Spanish President. Twoed was brought back and his bail here was placed at $3,000,000. In default of this he was placed in jail.

The authorities at Washington deny that the Twoed precedent applies to the Kratz case, holding that the Kratz case is entirely different. The authorities here contend that Twoed was wanted for frauds perpetrated on New York City, and that Kratz is wanted for an offense committed in the city of St. Louis, and that the circumstances are very similar.

Portugal Surrendered

Angell Abandoned.

In a Treatise on Extradition and Interstate Rendition, by John Bassett Moore, the highest authority on such questions, is cited the case of Angell, the secretary of the Pullman Palace Car Co. who in July, 1878, absconded, taking with him $100,000 of the company's funds. He took refuge in Portugal.

The Pullman company has enjoyed many favors from the national government, but it could hardly be supposed that it could demand and receive from the government that which would St. Louis, the city fourth in importance in the nation, as a report of the Angell case Moore says:

"On the 25th of November, 1878, Mr. E. V. Everts, Secretary of State, instructed Mr. Moran, the diplomatic representative of the United States at Lisbon, to express to the Portuguese government the satisfaction which the government of the United States would feel if Angell should be surrendered. While the instruction contained no promise of reciprocity, the language employed by Mr. Moran in his correspondence with the Portuguese government was capable of a different interpretation. The request which he originally presented to the government followed closely the language of the instructions. In reply Mr. Corvo, the Portuguese minister for foreign affairs, Dec. 5, 1878, said that his government would be happy to surrender the fugitive upon production of proper evidence of the crime against him; but expressed the hope that if at any time the Portuguese government had to allow the extradition of a fugitive to the government of the United States, the latter would be received with equal good will." Mr. Moran replied:

"I have to say unhesitatingly that such application will meet with an equally prompt and effectual response. My government is fully alive to the courtesy shown by his most faithful majesty's government in this instance and will not fail to give the evidence of the good feeling to any similar application made to it."

Angell was subsequently surrendered and sent on a vessel to Philadelphia. In his report of the case to the department of state Mr. Moran said it would be perceived that Mr. Corvo did not ask anything but a return of good will, and that he had only committed the government of the United States to that. In 1883, and again in 1888, Portugal refused to extradite a certain fugitive convict, referring each time to the case of Angell. Answer was made on both occasions that in the absence of a treaty the President would not feel authorized to comply with the request."

St. Louis as Strong as the Pullman Company.

Local authorities believe that the government, when on record as having such a precedent for a corporation like the Pullman company, could not ignore the request of St. Louis and Missouri for a man who is charged with having attempted to corrupt the legislature of the municipality.

CLAYTON ASSERTS KRATZ IS SAFE.

"There is no legal or other way in which Charles Kratz can be brought back to St. Louis," said Ambassador Powell Clayton of Mexico to the Post-Dispatch Wednesday morning.

Mr. Clayton arrived in St. Louis Tuesday evening and is a guest at the Planters Hotel.

"Bribery, under the Mexican law, is not an extraditable offense," the ambassador continued, "and President Diaz would not consent to the turning over of Kratz to the United States authorities unless there was a reciprocal understanding that this country would so act in the case of a Mexican fugitive."

FARGO SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTAL

CORONER'S VERDICT.

Husband Who Killed His Wife Was Exonerated.

EXCITEMENT CAUSED TRAGEDY

WOMAN'S CONDUCT HELD TO HAVE CAUSED ACCIDENT.

Inquest on Death of Mrs. Nettie Fargo Developed Facts as to Her Habits From Servants and From Her Escort of Tuesday.

At 11:40 Wednesday a coroner's jury rendered a verdict stating that Mrs. Nettie Fargo came to her death Tuesday morning through an accident, being shot by her husband, Harry B. Fargo, while he was under the influence of violent excitement caused by her conduct.

While the coroner's verdict exonerated Mrs. Fargo from the charge of murder, it established the policy of the police department. He was returned to the City Hospital, and will stay there until the assistant prosecuting attorney has time to examine the record of the coroner's inquest. The time consumed depends entirely on the coroner's stenographer. It may be a week or 10 days before final disposition is made of the case.

Wilbur Davis, the man who accompanied Mrs. Fargo home on the night of her death, was released by the order of the coroner.

At the inquest into the death of Mrs. Fargo, Pearl Specks, the negro servant girl, testified that she was responsible for the failure of the telegram, sent by Mr. Fargo, notifying her that he was coming home, to reach Mrs. Fargo.

"There was nobody at home when the telegram came," the witness said, "the daughter of the lady, who lives upstairs, signed for it at 5:30 o'clock. When I got back at 6:30 o'clock from the park, where I had taken the children in the afternoon, the telegram was given to me. I didn't open it."

"Later in the evening I went downtown with the children to meet Mrs. Fargo, but I forgot to give her the telegram. She never saw it. I didn't know what was in it until I got home and Mr. Fargo told me."

In examining the witnesses Deputy Coroner Fitzsimmons asked each of the witnesses who viewed Mrs. Fargo's body whether her clothing was powdered-bathed.

The purpose being to secure evidence regarding Mr. Fargo's contention that his wife was shot by accident.

The Specks girl and Dr. Robert Lewis of 324 Clarence avenue, the first two witnesses, said they did not notice any powder burns on Mrs. Fargo's dress.

His injured foot reported on a chair from the driveway, he was calm and composed before the inquest began, but several times after the witnesses commenced reciting the facts of his experience Monday night, he buried his face in his hands.

Husband Was Moved to Tears.

Only once were tears visible in his eyes. That was when the negro girl said that Mrs. Fargo had said after being upbraided by her husband:

"I know I'm not good enough for you, Harry."

The space within and without the railing in the coroner's office was crowded during the hearing.

Clerks from municipal offices helped to direct the crowd.

Policeman Hughes of the Tenth district stated that he took the unopened telegram from the Specks girl to the station on the avenue station, where it was opened by Lieut. Schwartz. The telegram was dated at Paris, Ill., and read:

"Will return at 6:30 this afternoon. Am very sick. Meet me at Union Station."

"HARRY."

The other witnesses told portions of the story of Mrs. Fargo's death. Detective Richard Joyce testified that he had arrested Wilbur Davis, a waiter at the Louisiana Cafe, Seventh and St. Charles streets, and that Davis had admitted being the man who escorted Mrs. Fargo home Monday evening and at whom Mrs. Fargo shot.

Davis next took the stand. He gave his address as 1210 Locust street, and was a 20-year-old, good-looking, youth, with heavy light-brown hair combed high up from his forehead.

He said Mrs. Fargo had been at the Louisiana Cafe after dinner and evening Monday night, and that he had been drinking and going out to telephone.

He said he had been drinking about half past 11 or so, he said, and asked me to take her home. I said I would. I put her in a Suburban car, helped her to get in, and stood on the back platform. She bobbed around in the seat and said she was all over her face. She rang the bell when we got to Clarence avenue. I lifted her out of the car and off the car, and helped her to the house.

"On the sidewalk I turned to go down the street I heard Mrs. Fargo say, 'Oh, Harry, I saw a man in his shirt-sleeves with a revolver.'"

"Come here," he shouted at me. I was astonished. Then he levelled the revolver at me and I ran. I heard a bullet whizz by me and I kept on running. I lost my hat and tore my pants, but I kept on running. I didn't know what was the matter. Davis said Mrs. Fargo had visited the "Louisiana" at all hours of the day and night.

Eliza Bailey, negro washerwoman for the Fargo family, was the last witness. She related with much detail why Pearl Specks, the colored servant, had been practically sent away from the house.

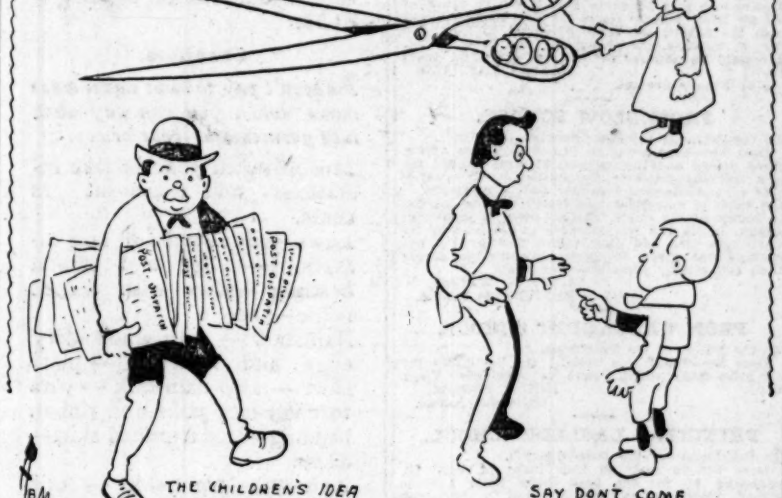

The first witness was Pearl Specks, the Fargo colored servant. She made practically the same statement she made to the Post-Dispatch regarding the tragedy. But she added one point.

"I took the telegram from the messenger boy and put it in my pocket," she stated. "I gave it to Mrs. Fargo. It was in the telegram that Mr. Fargo was coming home. I had it delivered. The next night he was here and he was very sick."

AMERICANS MUST PAIN AND DEATH SERVE SENTENCES IN PHILADELPHIA

Appeal for Discharge of Chicago's Men Refused.

LONG RECEIVES A REPORT CAPT. DAYTON CAN'T TELL ALL BY CABLE.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Secretary Long has received the following cablegram from Capt. Dayton of the cruiser Chicago, dated Venice yesterday, in answer to the department's inquiry:

"Doddridge, Wynne, Ledbetter, Kress and one marine on leave arrested."

"Principal charge relating police. Serials. There was when the first two were arrested, three months each. Have not yet their full statement or a report from court, but applied for."

"Resisting arrest largely due to pressing in of crowd and not understanding language of the audience."

"Appeal made to Rome. Impossible to explain all circumstances by cable. Will make full report."

ROME, April 30.—The officers of the United States cruiser Chicago, who were captured in all circumstances by cable, have been released.

The Italian law does not allow the court to grant pardon in cases of assaults on the person of the Americans.

Some of the newspapers mention the lynchings of Italians in the United States as sufficient reason for a refusal of clemency.

It is considered probable, however, that the prisoners will be released by order of the King June 1, the date of the fete of the Republic.

Capt. Dayton has taken precautions to prevent further trouble by ordering his men to stay still.

The swamen are in an ugly humor over the imprisonment of the Stranades.

The Italian press generally is supporting the government in its prosecution and imprisonment of the Americans.

The illusion of the "persecutions of Italians" in the United States has stirred the populace to indignation against the Americans who have by their conduct at the Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, shown that they are not worthy of the name of Americans.

Resisting authority, always a desperate offense in the eyes of Italians, has been augmented in the cases of the Americans because of the rumors that the prisoners acted with little regard to the police regulations of the country.

The Americans here fear that the case may result in strained relations between Italy and the United States. They say the attitude of Italy throughout has been so lacking in proper courtesy for a friendly power that the United States may justly feel that it has been injured.

The facts of the trouble seem to be hard to get. The members of the crew say their comrades did not mean to violate the law, and that they were being misled by the police.

They have related the police if they had known a legal effort was being made to take them. What was done, they say, did not merit such great severity even under the strictest construction of the law.

The government, on the other hand, says it cannot take cognizance of these facts, as the men clearly violated the police regulations and must suffer the penalty for such an offense. They were arrested days before they were taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, because they were law-breakers.

FAIR MAY BE POSTPONED TODAY

World's Fair Executive Committee Meets Today.

MAY TAKE DEFINITE ACTION

CONCLUSION THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN ARRIVED AT.

Plan Believed to Have Been Framed at Washington, Contingent Upon the Action Expected to Be Taken Here Today.

The postponement of the World's Fair until 1904 is expected to result from action to be taken Wednesday by Congress and by the members of the executive committee of the board of directors.

An amendment providing for the changing of the date of the Fair has been prepared by Congressman James A. Tawney of Minnesota, who urges that Congress take the initiative in bringing about postponement.

Members of the Senate committee, corresponding to Mr. Tawney's house committee, have taken the opposite view, and say that the directors of the Fair must make the first move.

This attitude of the senators gives great significance to the meeting of the executive committee called for Wednesday afternoon.

President D. R. Francis said Wednesday morning that he could not anticipate the action which the directors of the World's Fair would take on the question of postponement at their meeting at 4 o'clock, but that any action which might be taken at that meeting would at once be made public.

CONGRESS WILL SUGGEST 1904.

Secretary Walter B. Stevens said: "I do not know what the directors may do at their meeting, but there is no reason to doubt the authenticity of the Washington dispatches which state that postponement until 1904 will be proposed by Congress."

"It seems to me that more is being done at Washington than here in the direction of postponement."

"My Charleston speech states my position in that matter," said President Francis. "I said there, among many other things, that two years could be profitably used in making ready the Exposition."

The Washington dispatches state that Congressman Tawney, the author of previous World's Fair legislation, is willing to introduce a postponement without waiting for the directors to take the initiative, but that Senator Allison and others whose support is desired, oppose this. The action of Wednesday's meeting of the directors is, therefore, awaited in Washington as the signal for action on the part of Congress.

MESSAGE FROM CARTER EXPECTED.

Chairman Carter of the national commission is taking a leading part in the deliberations at Washington, and is expected to arrive, if necessary, as the intermediary between the Houses of Congress and the directors.

The amendment prepared by Mr. Tawney to the sundry civil bill will be presented to the senators Wednesday.

It is expected that the matter will be brought before the directors by a message from Chairman Carter, asking whether postponement would be opposed by them. With a reply in the negative, he will then go before the committee of Congress and recommend the passage of Mr. Tawney's amendment.

ST. LOUIS BUILDER STARTLED ENGLAND

James Stewart Gets Parliament's Attention.

BELIEVES NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE

HOWEVER, DOESN'T EXPECT FAIR
TO BE HELD IN 1903.

Stewart built the Westinghouse plant in London in nine months by applying American methods where they were unknown.

James Stewart, the St. Louis contractor, who in nine months built the Westinghouse Electric Co.'s $7,500,000 plant in London, occupying 150 acres, and who has revolutionized the construction business in England by introducing American methods, says that the World's Fair cannot be completed by May 1, 1903, at the present rate of progress.

"Nothing is impossible in building," said
Mr. Stewart, "but the building of the World's Fair in a year is possible in only one way—to give one man carte blanche,
and not to require of him anything except that he get the work done on time."

One Man Authority

Could build Fair for 1903.
"To complete the job on time, he would need to have ample resources and absolute authority, and would have to place his contracts to those best able to do the work,
rather than to the lowest bidder."

"When I saw the price at which the first building contract for the Fair had been let, I cabled from London to our firm not to figure on any more of the contracts."

Mr. Stewart will return to London in a week, taking with him two young St. Louis engineers, Ralph P. Taylor and John W.
Cowan. They will be added to his present force of 30 men, all under 30 years of age, who have supervised the details of the work with which he has astonished English engineers.

Two important jobs await Mr. Stewart on his return. One is the construction of the track and electric equipment for the new London underground railway, a Yerkes enterprise. The other is the reconstruction and electrical equipment of the Mersey river tunnel between Liverpool and Birkenhead.

Parliament Agape

at American Energy.
"They are talking about our work in Parliament," said Mr. Stewart. "It has been used as an argument to show that the English workman has a greater working capacity than employers in that country credit him with. This is true. We have laid bricklayers working for us who laid 600 a day, while on other jobs men supposed to be equally skillful laid less than 50."

"English contractors figured that it would take five or six years to finish the Westinghouse plant. When I promised to do it in a year they began to talk of the trouble
I would have with labor unions."
"I not only had no trouble with the unions but I showed the contractors some new kinds of building every day. Things which are in common use in the United States do not appear to be known there."

"They had no steam engine hoists, hoist brick hoists were unknown. They never thought of putting in a temporary sawmill plant on a big building job. Painting by compressed air, was a new thing to them. Steel wheelbarrows sprayed them, and automatic mortar hoses are an amusement. They were still using old grub hoe."

"As an example of English backwardness engineering methods, the engineers there are still using the old levelers which prevent the view up and down. Things which in the levels which give a right-side-up view until we placed them in use."

"With the most old-fashioned of equipment, they employ one-tenth as many men as are needed to do the same work. They mishandled me with 250 men when I completed the Westinghouse building. I increased the number in a week to 300."

gland Takes Four Years
to Build a Hotel.
They are building a hotel in Manchester
which they have been steadily at work four years, and which is not yet approaching completion. That is a sample of glacial speed in building.

Railroads in England are being Americanized, but it will take many years and cost many millions to bring them to American standards. The most important to be made is in track-laying methods.

amounts to nearly $2,000,000, and that the reconstruction of the Mersey tunnel to twice that amount. He says that jobs will be completed in 18 months.

sea and underground, will be 23 miles

SHARP WORDS WITH GEN. MACARTHUR

DIFFERING STATEMENTS ON HAYOC OF WAR IN PHIL-IPPINES.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Major-General
MacArthur today gave further testimony before the Senate committee on Philippines. He explained his statement made yesterday that absolute chaos would result should independence be given the Philippines and the United States forces be withdrawn, by saying that the people of the Philippines, being less prepared for self-government and administration than any of the Latin-American republics at the time of their emancipation from Spain, their own unaided efforts to accomplish self-regeneration would in all probability prove abortive.

The people of the Philippines, he said,
have rudimentary ideas and aspirations,
and are therefore in an essentially plastic condition, which, under the tutelage control of the United States, would, in his opinion, admit of a rapid molding of the body politic into consistent, self-supporting commonwealth.

Even the best thinkers, he said, among the Philippines have no conception whatever of the practical mechanical efforts whereby the results they are all anxious to attain can be successfully accomplished. American withdrawal from the islands would,
in his opinion, result in the permanent failure of republican institutions in the East and a fratricidal war which would continue until suppressed by some exterior force.

The broad generalization, he said, is reached that the United States must retain the archipelago as a tutionary annex; that we must contend for commercial super-sue, and perhaps combat for political superiority to overcome the inherent difficulty of the situation which will require the most profound efforts of constructive statesmanship.

Senator Patterson asked if he would apply the same views with respect to Japan, and Gen. MacArthur said that if Japan should come into our hands in a clean manner, and with the same definite purpose we have in the Philippines, we should by all means keep it. He gave it as his conscientious belief that the present of the United States in the Philippines is an unqualified benefaction to the Filipino people.

"Do you mean the Filipino people that are left alive after they have been subjected?" inquired Senator Patterson.

Gen. MacArthur declared that he did not mean that there has been any unusual destruction of life in the islands. "The destruction," said he, "is simply incident to war, and, of course, embraces a very small percentage of the total population, which is dense."

"Thirty-three and a third per cent in one province," remarked Senator Patterson. Replying to this statement, Gen. MacArthur informed Senator Patterson that if he preferred to believe that he (MacArthur) could not help it.

"We have as much right to believe that from an American officer who is the civil governor and who is there in the province,
as we have to believe you," replied Mr.
Patterson, which brought the retort:
"You can believe that, believe what you wish and I will believe what I wish."

ON CAR 1200.
"Would you believe it—there were 1200 help and situations wanted ads in the big want ad directory with last Sunday's Post-Dispatch. How strange. That's the number of this car."

"Well, what of it? How does that interest me? Of what special value has 1200 over any other figure?"

"Just this. You see, I'm a crank on these want ads. You know for real works of wonder Aladdin's lamp wasn't in it with the modern want ad. For instance: Think of wishing for a housegirl and then absolutely getting one in a few hours! Isn't that wonderful—and that's just what it amounts to, only you write your wish, so to speak, on a piece of paper and send it to the nearest druggist who makes the requisite charge and telephones your wish to the Post-Dispatch and there you are—in a few hours, lo and behold, here comes the very girl you wished for."

"But you are disgracing."
"Oh, yes, you wanted to know the value of 1200. Well, the 1200 help and situations wanted ads in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch lacks about 100 of being equal to the combined number in the two other leading Sunday newspapers. It was this great superiority of numbers that caught my eye.
But here is my corner. Good-by."

The Morning's Mourning

As George Ade says, in his new opera, "Ki-Ram:"

"It is no time for mirth and laughter
The cold gray dawn of the morning after."

A fur overcoat on your tongue; "hair on your teeth;" a taste "as if a cat had littered in your mouth;" nerves a-tremble; aching hair; a "bust-head of splitting agony;" appetite—none; movement of the bowels—not a sign; present (unwelcome visitor), Gen. R. E. Morse. Never do it again, eh? Oh yes, you will. Remember

"The Devil was sick; the Devil a monk would be."
"The Devil got well; the Devil a monk was he."

misery will make you well. But, for goodness sake, be wise, up to the century, and the next drink too much, irritate your stomach, block your bowels, don't forget that you can pre-

TRIS IS AFTER
WORLD'S TOBACCO
Battle Is On in Cuba and British Empire.

OGDENS MAY ENTER COMBINE.

THEY ARE ENGLAND'S LARGEST CIGARETTE MANUFACTURERS.

By the Acquisition of American Cigar Co., Way Is Opened for Controlling the Output of Cuban Fields.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 30.—An important move in the battle for control of the tobacco market of the world will be made today when the giant Continental Tobacco Co. and the American Cigar Co. will become practically one.

Control of the tobacco output of Cuba is aimed at, and President Duke has been quoted as saying that the trust could afford to lose $100,000 to get control of the market in the British empire.

That measure to realize the latter are now under way is indicated by the presence in New York of the Ogdens, Great Britain's greatest manufacturers of cigarettes, in whose business the American Tobacco Co. has already bought a big interest.

The Tobacco Trust, through one concern, now controls the American Tobacco Co., capitalized at $80,000,000; the Continental Tobacco Co., capitalized at $100,000,000; the American Cigar Co., capitalized at $10,000,000; and the Havana-American company, capitalized at $5,000,000.

Besides this it is reaching out in England, having already gained a controlling interest in the big Ogden concern.

The new arrangement between the Continental Tobacco Co. and the American Cigar Co. is one by which the continental buys the entire manufactured output of the American Cigar Co. and disposes of it through its own salesmen.

By gaining control of the output of the American Cigar Co. the trust also gains control of the output of the Havana-American Cigar Co., control of which was secured by the American company last May. This will be a great step toward the realization of the trust's plans for the control of the Cuban tobacco market.

A sharp contest is being waged between the trust and the Universal Tobacco Co. for domination of the tobacco market in Cuba. Both have been heavy buyers in the past of the Havana Commercial Co., which is capitalized at $10,000,000 and controls the principal cigar plants of Havana.

HOMEOPATHS SAY
OUR WATER IS GOOD

DECLARE IT IS PURIFIED BEFORE IT REACHES HERE.

APPROVED OF FILTRATION

Dr. Overman Thinks the Chicago Canal Does Not Damage the Water of St. Louis.

Homeopathic physicians discussed the purity of St. Louis Mississippi water at the final session of the Missouri Institute of Homeopathy held Tuesday at the Southern Hotel, and decided that our water is wholesome.

Dr. David H. Overman's paper on sanitary science started the discussion. He asserted that the water was good and that the water received from the Chicago drainage canal purifies itself long before it passes St. Louis. Dr. Overman suggested that with filtration the fluid would be clear and perfectly wholesome.

Most of the physicians endorsed this proposition and Dr. Lewis P. Crutcher started a laugh by saying that it didn't matter much about the city's water, as that commodity wasn't the fluid which has made St. Louis famous.

Jefferson City was selected for the location of the next annual meeting. The annual election of officers resulted as follows: Dr. L. E. Whitney of Carthage, president; Dr. W. Forester of Kansas City, vice-president; Dr. Lewis P. Crutcher, general secretary; Dr. W. E. Rely of Fulton, provisional secretary; Dr. D. M. Gibson of St. Louis, treasurer.

SHEEP DYING FROM DROUTH.

Hundreds, Including Spring Lambs, Are Perishing in New Mexico.

SANTA FE, N. M., April 30.—Reports from all parts of the territory indicate that sheep are dying by the hundreds.

This is lambing season and the number of lambs that will be saved will be unusually small. The range has practically dried up.

Added to the losses of the sheep men in the territory, the grasshoppers are already creating havoc in the northern Rio Grande valley.

Around Santa Cruz the insects are as thick as leaves on the fruit trees and they are eating off clean early vegetables.

$3.50 WASH WAISTS AT $1.98

Here 6 representative styles from the scores which you'll find—all priced at $1.98 each

Away back last November, during the dull season, we closed out from a big Embroidery Manufacturer of St. Gall, Switzerland, his entire stock of Embroidery Allovers at less than manufacturer's cost, including the new Broderie Anglaise, Broderie Alame, Broderie Margo, Irish Point effects hand-made Band Embroideries and Swiss Allovers in French beading effects.

Embroideries that retail at $1.50 to $2.50 per yard. We next secured a splendid quality of India Lawn for bodies and sleeves and turned our purchases over to one of the foremost waist makers of the United States with instructions to make them up for us in the best possible manner.

The result now awaits you on our second floor! Just 8396 Shirt Waists, in dozens of charming styles (of which the above illustration can give but a faint idea) embracing the prettiest and daintiest of shirt waist ideas for 1902, including the popular "Gibson" style and dozens of open back and open front effects. Waists which for fit, finish, good workmanship and low prices cannot be approached by the combined stocks of all other St. Louis stores. They have the stylish blouse fronts, tucked backs, bishop sleeves, fancy tucked turn-over stock collars and cuffs finished with hemstitching—all sizes from 32 to 44 bust measure. If the wearing season were on the wane such a price would be remarkable, but at the very opening of the season it is absolutely phenomenal.

To facilitate selling we have arranged the Waists according to sizes on large tables, and have also provided 25 additional experienced salesladies.

Mail orders filled but no Waists sent C. O. D. or on approval.

Take your choice of this great assortment tomorrow at the insignificant price of only
